

Hi, my name is Elizabeth and I am from _____ (our / the) United States, and my question is, who is someone you can count _____ (on / at)?

So I know that I could count on my mom, _____ (from / for) example, my dad or my sister. If _____ (something / someone) was wrong, I know I could call them _____ (up / out) and they'd be there. But someone outside _____ (from / of) family that I know I can _____ (count / counts) on is my friend William. He is always helping _____ (others / other). For example, this _____ (past / post) weekend, my sister-in-law had a flat _____ (tired / tire). We called him. He immediately came and _____ (fixed / faxed) it.

A few weeks ago, _____ (another / other) friend was moving and he _____ (cleared / clearly) his schedule for the weekend to _____ (ensure / surely) that he could help him move _____ (into / onto) his new house, picking _____ (out / up) heavy furniture and lending his _____ (track / truck). I also know, for example, if I'm upset about _____ (somewhere / something), I could call him up and he _____ (won't / would) listen. So he's definitely the _____ (kind / kindest) of friend that you want to have. He's always giving, always _____ (helping / hearing), and I know that I can count on _____ (it / him).