

Hi, I am Elise, and I'm going to _____ (talk / talking) about the _____ (difference / different) between living in the city and living in _____ (a / the) countryside.

So in the countryside, the _____ (city / cities) and villages are smaller than big cities, which _____ (mean / means) they're calmer. There's less traffic and less _____ (pollution / polluted). So they are usually considered healthier to _____ (love / live) in than living in the _____ (big / big) city. But some people do find it _____ (less / least) interesting or a bit more boring to live in the countryside _____ (before / because) the cities offer more entertainment _____ (options / optional). Large cities also offer more options in _____ (times / terms) of education and employment, but the crime _____ (levels / levels) are higher, too. So it's really a personal _____ (choose / choice).

Which one do you _____ (think / think) is better: living in a city _____ (or / on) in the countryside?
